Separate Schools ---Whitney

Advocating a separate commission to take charge of the boys' and girls' industrial schools and the boys' and girls' homes for children of leprosy parents, Judge William L. Whitney of the juvenile court this morning outlined what he thinks is the only practical scheme for controlling the present situation in connection with the children that are sent to these various institutions.

The matter was put before several members of the last legislature, but was not taken up actively until towards the end of the session, and then there was no time to put it through. Judge Whitney hopes that steps will be taken to separate these four schools from the control of the department of education and put them under a separate commission when the Legislature meets again next year.

"Since receiving the resolution from the commissioners of education that no more boys should be sent to the industrial school I have now ordered this course," stated the judge this morning, "but at the same time this state of things can not go on for ever. The population of Honolulu is growing and naturally the percentage of boys who need correction is always also growing, and we must have some place to put them."

"When the new buildings are erected it will relieve the strain to a certain extent, but at the same time it will not

EXPERT ASSURED OF MAYOR'S AID

That Mayor Fern and H. Gooding Field, the municipal expert, will cooperate in Mr. Field's work of investigating city and county affairs with a view to promoting efficiency, was the assurance Field is given as he goes into his work today.

He called upon the mayor and was assured that the mayor's office is at his service. After this Mr. Field secured a bunch of data, including the last city report to the Territorial Legislature and some supervisory reports, visited the city hall in the morning, and got a flying start on his probe of Honolulu's official affairs.

Expert Field today outlined some of the details of the system which will be applied to Honolulu. "This system," he said, "is really a harmonizing of all the municipal accounting, so that the various departments of the city, so far as their finances are concerned, are given a basis on a uniform and unit cost control by which the operations of a city of a given size may be compared with other cities of the same size."

"Back of the accounting is the whole administration of city affairs. By careful investigation of the accounting and comparison with other cities whose progressiveness in up-to-date methods makes their standards reasonable certain, it can be determined where Honolulu is falling short, if it is falling short. The excessive labor charges, for instance, should be analyzed into their component parts, and if waste occurs, it can be remedied at once."

Double The Militia In Hawaii ?

"If Hawaii would strengthen its National Guard, the United States government would be found ready to make liberal appropriations. There is no State or Territory in the Union that can more easily secure funds for its organized militia, if the right course is followed."

This is the statement of a local army officer who is known to be well posted on the defensive plans of the War Department for Oahu. For obvious reasons his name is withheld, but his opinions bear the stamp of authenticity, and his statements are not mere idle talk.

"Another regiment of infantry, even two more regiments, would meet with the hearty approval of the War Department," continued the officer. "The government is making every effort to adequately garrison Oahu, and any move that will tend to strengthen the army here will be received with encouragement. I believe that with a new army assured, it would be possible to wake up public interest to the extent of organizing another full regiment of infantry, composed entirely of Americans other than native born. The 1st Infantry, National Guard of Hawaii, is fine body of men, largely recruited among the Hawaiians. This regiment has done good work, and has seen service at the time of the provisional government. The organization

PILOT DEAD; ISSUE DROPPED

Out of respect to the memory of the late Captain M. N. Sanders, the veteran pilot who dropped dead on the bridge of the steamer Cleveland, the territorial board of harbor commissioners will drop the claim it has made on the Japanese liner Shinjo Maru for damages done to Atakau wharf on that vessel's first trip here. Captain Sanders was the pilot on that occasion.

The Shinjo Maru is in port today and Captain Smith of the vessel would have given testimony, but Captain Sanders' death has made a change in the board's plans and the question of damages will be dropped. Captain Sanders' testimony was also material.

BISHOP STREET PLANS AGAIN UP

The jury impaneled in connection with the proposed extension of Bishop street and the closing of Union street and Garden Lane met at 2 o'clock this afternoon to hear the views of the public on the question.

Owners and attorneys and those were present and discussed it fully.

The jury finally passed a resolution advising that the project be carried through.

NEW JAPANESE AMBASSADOR ON CHINA'S RECOGNITION

NIPPON WILL NOT TAKE INITIATIVE IN ACTING

"One of the most important matters which is occupying the attention of the imperial Japanese government today is the establishment of a stable form of government in China. Japan will recognize the new government of China simultaneously with the other Powers. For the present, Japan will not take the initiative of recognizing the Republic of China."

Viscount S. Chinda, new Japanese Ambassador to the United States, who arrived today from Japan, made the foregoing statement to the Bulletin reporter.

Viscount Uchida, now Japanese Minister of Foreign Affairs in Tokyo, Japan Viscount Chinda is accompanying to his post in Washington, where her husband,

WILL RECOGNIZE GOVERNMENT IF IT'S STABLE

The first official statement to reach Hawaii of Japan's attitude toward the new Chinese Republic is made through the Ambassador to the United States, Viscount S. Chinda. Viscount Chinda declares that Japan is ready to recognize a government that proves itself stable, but not to take the initiative before the other powers. The ambassador further states that the report of Japanese troops sent into Manchuria are untrue.

The new Ambassador talked readily on governmental affairs, and when asked by a Bulletin reporter about the stand the Japanese government intends to take in recognizing the newborn Republic of China, he promptly but carefully made the foregoing statement. Like other shrewd diplomats, he was cordial as well as careful in his replies to questions with which he was bombarded by the newspapermen who flocked into the special chamber of the Japanese liner.

In response to another question put to him, Ambassador Chinda said that Japan has no objection to the establish-

FOR NAVY?

Naval officers here would not be surprised at the receipt of an order requiring all officers to be in uniform at all times, while on service in Hawaii, the Philippines, the Canal Zone, Alaska and Porto Rico. A similar order came to the arms in the new uniform regulations, and the guess is that the Navy Department will follow the same line. It is also considered possible that the order for both army and navy will be put into effect in the United States as well.

MOANA HOTEL DANCE TONIGHT

An important decision has been reached. Blanchard's orders from Washington are final on this point, and he will stand by them. No excuses whatever can be taken.

It is thought that by these methods the custom will be more at the original port of embarkation and thus a greater part of smuggling and thus a greater amount of contraband will be seized at this end.

The custom has so far been that all goods coming in misbranded are held up and seized at any other ports where goods are changing the brand to fit with the requirements of the port of entry. This has been going on now for some time, but the department is evidently getting tired of it.

Under the new decision only three junks are using large quantities of coal for dye have been held up in their product. Blanchard will look in spite of all offers to correct the mis-

SHAKE-UP AT MATERNITY HOME?

Following an application for six months' leave of absence made by Head of the Sanitarium, but that she would not accept it.

The committee had a meeting during the week, but the results of its deliberations on the matter are not known at the present time. The next in line as candidate for the position is Nurse Meridie Smith, who has been holding the position of staff nurse during the past six months. Rumor is very busy of the opinion that someone can be found here to fill the position equally well, but at the present time nothing is known for certain.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE MADE

Warrants were sworn out today for the arrest of Paul Burns and Manuel Pinel, employees of T. H. Davies & Co., on the charge of embezzlement, the warrants being issued from the city and county attorney's office, on complaint, it is stated, of the firm.

Inquiry from Davies & Co. brought out the fact that the men have been under investigation, but the amount involved is said to be only a small one, about $50. Both of the men have been trusted employees for some six years.

Brown University alumni have raised $700,000 this year toward the $1-million endowment fund for increased salaries to its professors.

WILL ARREST

THREE SOON

Three warrants are to be sworn out on time today by Food Commissioner Edward P. Blanchard for ice cream makers who have been turning out a class of goods that is under standard, according to information this morning.

One of them is a man who was fined on a previous occasion but who evidently not yet learned his lesson. It is stated. The samples were gone through before Blanchard left for Maui and the facts are therefore all cut and dried.

A dance, to be given by Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Raymond and Miss Makae, that was postponed, will be given tomorrow night, February 9.
